QR Codes Introduced to Passenger Information Displays at Tokyo International Airport Haneda Domestic Terminals

【Example of a display screen on a mobile phone】

QR codes have been introduced to information signs and displays at Tokyo International Airport Haneda domestic terminals.* These codes can be used to obtain information easily over mobile phones and other digital devices. We hope that the introduction of the codes will allow users to obtain accessible and easy-to-understand information, and will contribute to a more comfortable and convenient experience for all users of the terminals, particularly those from overseas.
