At lunchtime, various set menus, with additions such as steamed buns, soup, and dessert, are available, while at dinner time, a la carte dishes, including the executive chef's specialty, Black Vinegar Pork, and course menus will be served. Diners can also enjoy authentic Taiwanese tea, poured carefully cup by cup, using hot water boiled in a traditional tea kettle.

With an open kitchen in the center, the theatrical layout of the space will give diners the experience of fine Chinese cuisine accompanied by the sights, sounds, and aromas of the cooking.
