First Ten diners only

On July 18, 2018, Tokyo Airport Restaurant Co., Ltd. (3-3-2 Hanedakuko, Ota-ku, Tokyo; President: Masatoshi Akahori), a group company of Japan Airport Terminal Co., Ltd., will re-open Saiho Chinese Restaurant in the 3rd Floor Marketplace of Haneda Airport's Terminal 1.

The year was 1963, the year before the Tokyo Olympics. Japanese, Western, and Chinese restaurants offering premium cuisine and service were opening one after the other at Haneda Airport. Standing head and shoulders above the rest in popularity was Saiho Chinese Restaurant. The luxuriously appointed restaurant was always bustling with air travelers and people seeing them off or greeting them. Serving a la carte dishes and premium courses made with luxury ingredients such as Peking duck and shark's fin, which were still quite rare in Japan at the time, Saiho was a popular place to spend an elegant time at the airport.

For the re-opening, in addition to reviving some of the popular dishes of those times, the restaurant has also developed a new, contemporary menu. Enjoy the many exquisite dishes, which have been meticulously created by the executive chef.
